

Missouri School of Journalism
Brown Bag
presents

Covering God from both sides of the fence:
MU alum & Chicago Sun-Times veteran talks about switching careers from "religion" to
"religious" journalism & living to talk about it

Daniel J. Lehmann

'73 Journalism School graduate Lehmann now edits The Lutheran, the official magazine of the nation's largest Lutheran group.

Lehmann was a religion writer for the Chicago Sun-Times, a federal court reporter and a night city editor. He also was the public information officer of the U.S. District Court, Northern District of Illinois. He joined The Lutheran in 2006.

Sponsored by the Center on Religion and the Professions

TUCKER FORUM - 85 GANNETT HALL
MONDAY, April 21, 2008
12 NOON

Missouri School of Journalism
Earl English Graduate Studies Center
134 Neff Annex
Columbia, MO 65211
(573) 882-4852